

The Best Photos of the Day

SHANGHAI.- Shanghai based 34 year-old Belgian artist Phil Akashi posing in front of his portrait of South African peace icon and former boxer Nelson Mandela, which he forged by pounding the wall 27,000 times with a boxing glove which bore the Chinese character for "freedom", in Shanghai. Mandela, who's 95th birthday earlier this month was marked in South Africa by an outpouring of charitable deeds, with many people offering 67 minutes of service for the 67 years he was in public service, continues to show signs of improvement after two months of hospital treatment. AFP PHOTO / Peter PARKS.

The Best Photos of the Day

SHANGHAI.- Close up detail of Shanghai based 34 year-old Belgian artist Phil Akashi's portrait of South African peace icon and former boxer Nelson Mandela, which he forged by pounding the wall 27,000 times with a boxing glove which bore the Chinese character for "freedom", in Shanghai. Mandela, who's 95th birthday earlier this month was marked in South Africa by an outpouring of charitable deeds, with many people offering 67 minutes of service for the 67 years he was in public service, continues to show signs of improvement after two months of hospital treatment. AFP PHOTO / Peter PARKS.

Ashmolean Museum announces exhibition partnership with Hall Art Foundation

Portrait of Malcolm Morley in his studio. Photo: © 2010 Jason Schmidt.

37 contemporary Chinese artists and artist groups exhibit at Groninger Museum

"ZOO X (Zuoxiao Zuzhou). People And Stories Around Us (detail).

Museum of London and tv shopping retailer QVC sign license agreement in industry first

Conservation of gold and enamel brooch set with foiled amethysts© Museum of London.

[http://www.artdaily.com/index.asp\[url\]](http://www.artdaily.com/index.asp[url])

Copyright © artdaily.org